

Missional Leadership Conference Break-out Tracks

Resource Track	Missional Networks	Missional Lifestyles	Women's Ministry	Technology
Session 1	Resourcing Networks Led by, Bobby Vaughn Can something little do something big? Every church plant begins as something little. What could happen if you started small, but dreamed big? What could happen if you engaged business leaders and lay people to dream big about impacting society through church planting? This breakout will tell the story of one family, one church, and one network that began small, dreamed big, and is now aggressively planting churches around the world. You will learn how to think strategically, engage culture, and network individuals, companies, and churches together to expand the kingdom through church planting.”	What is Missional Lifestyle? Led by, Steve Cantor When Jesus gave the Great Commission to His followers, He said, “As you go, make disciples” (see Matt. 28:19). He also said to them, “As the Father has sent Me, I also send you” (John 20:21, HCSB). As we go through the journey of life, we have opportunities to share Christ and make disciples. This interactive breakout session will help you to live as a missionary in your community and make disciples of those who may never otherwise attend church, by bringing the gospel and a faith community to them. Steve Cantor of the North American Mission Board will lead this session.	Women’s Ministry Has Left the Building - Environments: Led by, Becky Badry Women spend the majority of their time in one of two environments: home or the workplace. We will discover that within God’s plan He strategically places us in a neighborhood or workplace for a season and for an eternal purpose.	Church Communication - Turning your crowd into a “Tribe!” Led by, Steve Caton One of the greatest challenges that church leaders face today is developing a committed, well-connected, growing community. In his latest book “Tribes”, Seth Godin talks about the difference between a crowd and a tribe. Tribes are committed to a common idea, a leader and to each other. They are involved, passionate and eager to share their zeal with others. Do you lead a tribe or a crowd? How do you connect with your tribe? How does your tribe connect with you? How do you know if your tribe is even connected at all? Come learn the practical answers to these and other questions that will help you turn your crowd into a committed and loyal tribe.
Session 2	Partnering Church Networks Leader: TBD	Continued...	Women’s Ministry Has Left the Building—Home:	Partnering Church Networks Led by, Steve Caton

Missional Leadership Conference Break-out Tracks

	Research reveals that less than twenty percent of churches are involved in church planting activities. In this breakout Ron will discuss ways to network pastors of established churches together to enhance their church planting capacity. During their time together Ron will equip them to analyze the needs and opportunities for growth in their community and formulate an action plan that guides the church in their quest to fulfill the Great Commission. Network members are challenged to “learn and return” using their skills and resources to help other lead pastors start new churches, creating a cycle of reproducing churches exponentially advancing the Kingdom.		Led by, Becky Badry Women today have more choices than ever before, but that doesn’t necessarily mean that we are more fulfilled. Many struggle with the decision to pursue a career or to dedicate ourselves solely to caring for home and family. In this session we will address issues facing “stay at home” wives and moms that often create tension between ministry and family life.
Session 3	Church Planter Networks Led by Todd McMichen Networks are a natural by-product of like-minded individuals and teams who come together to share resources, wisdom, and coaching. It is vitally important that planters have the proper resources to	Continued...	Women’s Ministry Has Left the Building – Workplace: Led by, Becky Badry By choice or by necessity women are in the workplace. According to the Department of Labor and 2006 statistics over 65 percent of women	Leveraging Existing Web Technologies Led by, Glenn Steers

Missional Leadership Conference Break-out Tracks

	ensure the survivability of not only their church, but their family, and their sanity! What are networks, why do we need them, why should planters be a part of them, and how do they decide what networks to be a part of? We will seek to answer these questions and more in our time of discussion.		ages 16-65 are in the labor force. We will explore how the church can equip, support and encourage women in the workplace as we seek to be a light in a dark world and balance home and family responsibilities.
Session 4		Continued...	Women’s Ministry Has Left the Building – Transformations: Led by, Becky Badry Each of us lives in a unique cultural environment; however a postmodern dominant worldview exists everywhere and honestly can be quite scary and strange. We will discuss how as a modern day Esther we have been born in this generation for “such a time as this” to reach the Postmodern woman. We will identify the Postmodern woman and discover seven pillars that will lead her to spiritual transformation.	Leveraging Existing Web Technologies Led by, Glenn Steers